

The Bird of the Ocean (Water 7 Edition)

by ghostlyCommunicator

Category: One Piece

Genre: Adventure, Humor

Language: English

Characters: Luffy, OC

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-16 01:32:50

Updated: 2016-04-26 18:15:31

Packaged: 2016-04-27 16:17:32

Rating: M

Chapters: 3

Words: 2,399

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: A young 15 year old girl from our world gets a message and is sent into the world of One Piece, using the Tori Tori no Mi fruit of the Model, Peregrine Falcon! How will she help the Straw Hats in the future to come. Mature because BLOOD and GORE and all that snazzy crap.

1. Time for an Adventure!

I grunted, scrolling down on my Tablet, reading stories others of my damned kind have made.

I was in love with Fairy Tail and One Piece stories, Self-Inserts too, but I hated those damn stories where some sort of Mary-sue OC rejoins the crew or whatever and is already friends with EVERYONE. I sighed, putting down my tablet as I looked around.

My name is Kaitlyn, Last name NOT needed because 1. Privacy, and 2. My last name is something of a family problem. You see, my parents had me in their TEENAGE years, and I was born in 2000, so I was an early birthday present. My father was unable to care for me and my mother, a court came in, and then he was banned from my life. Well not really, but you know how it works, right? I've recently met him a year or two back, and he was cool. I even have two step sisters who are NOT as annoying as my own sister. My sister is Aleesa, or Leesa for short (it really isn't a big difference), and she was born in what, 2003-4? I forget her birthday fairly easy.

Its like as if asking me if I remember where I was first raised at. I could say Connecticut or Maine, since my family (my mom and my step father) moved a lot apparently. Never mind all this.

I sighed for what seemed to be the 100th time today. It was April 15th, 2 days after Homestuck ended. Oh, and it's 2016. I was mentally asking myself why I couldn't die and just be reborn somewhere else.

Well, bad luck is on my side because as soon as I said that, a buzz came from my phone, making me glance at it, picking it up, logging on through a damn pass-code, and going to my text messages. I had gotten some sort of message from ominesent_overlord, which made me wince literally because of the terrible name. I tapped it with my pointer finger, and mumbled the words that was on the screen out loud.

"Hello, Kaitlyn, would you like to be in a world where you aren't just waiting for the day to pass? Pick one of the tree fruits below!" which was really odd, because 1. HOW DID HE KNOW MY NAME? and 2. What the fuck is with the fruits. I could go into a long explanation on the looks, so I'll go into the softer details.

There were 6 fruits in 3 rows, so 2 top, 2 middle, and two bottom. The top two consisted of a peeled apple and something resembling a strawberry. The apple had swirls on its body, and the sides had large wing like swirls of them that poked out. The strawberry had a stem that had spikes on one side of the stem, and sharp spikes on the back of the straw berry. The middle two was a pile of grapes and an orange. The grape had wisps of red coming from the swirls, and the orange had weird hair coming from it, definitely NOT going to be picked. The last two were a plum and a pear, the plum having black haze, like pitch black, coming from its swirls and the plum had wispy white air like things coming from its swirls. I glanced again and poked the apple, as it was poked it widened to show its name.

" Tori Tori no Mi Model: Peregrine Falcon ", so I poked the others. " Sutegosaurusu Sutegosaurusu no Mi ", "Xatu/Katu no Mi", " Kami Kami no Mi ", "Yami Yami no Mi ", and " Kaze Kaze no Mi ", which I guess was "Bird Bird Fruit", " Stegosaurus Stegosaurus Fruit ", " Void Void Fruit ", " Darkness Darkness Fruit ", and " Air Air Fruit ". I pressed the bird fruit, and chose the check mark. Soon, my phone flashed bright colors, making me close my eyes and I blacked out.

I was awoken by the sounds of seagulls, which was weird because I lived nowhere near a grocery store, fast food place, or the beach. I winced, getting up shakily. I grunted, and pressed my hands to my head as I just thought, "_WHAT THE HELL WAS THAT_" in my head.

I grunted, and looked down. I noticed now I was wearing a T-Shirt that did not show off my chest, thank god, with a plain black color, so if I get wet, nothing would show. I looked down further and noticed some sort of sweat pants that had feathers in some parts. I looked down at my hands, realizing that instead of palms, I had feathers. My whole arm was one big wing, which made me blink before I sighed, thinking of an normal human skin, I opened my eyes and noticed they were back to human like shapes, which made me happy as fuck!

I turned, and began walking, looking around a bit. I sighed, opening my arms as I decided to just turn into a bird. I closed my eyes, muttering; "_Tori Tori no... BÄ•dofÅ•mu!*__" I growled, imagining my bird form. I felt myself shrink, my arms and hands turning into feathers, and soon it was done, all the less with a bit of pain. I winced, and opened my eyes and grinned, noticing I looked like a normal Falcon, a Peregrine in fact!

I decided to see what I can do, and flapped my wings up and down, rising into the air. I flew off, letting out a loud noise that the falcon makes. I flew out to open sea, noticing I was on an empty Island. I looked back to where I was going, and continued flying. I wasn't worried much, since I new what anime I was in. I was in the world of One Piece, and my dream is to see the WHOLE world! I curled my beak into a smile as I looked into the distance. I knew where I was heading. To Water 7!

2. Unintentional Crash!

The Cover shows a Falcon version of Kat flying in the sky over Water Seven with a shadow on the ground in the shape of a 9 tailed fox, and the shadow in the clouds showing an Phoenix's shadow. Everyone below looks up to her in fear, as she holds 6 Rumble Balls.

To tell the truth, flying is amazing. The wind in my feathers, the smell of the ocean, and the Caribbean blue of the sea, and the squawking of ANNOYING seagulls. Although now that I think about it, the seagulls in this world talk right? Oh well, I'll eat fish and all that crap. I knew I was nearing land, I could feel it in my skull, like an annoying ding in my head that gets louder like those metal detectors.

I gazed my eyes forward, activating my awesome sight, and saw that indeed there was land. Specifically, Water Seven, where the Straw-hats fight Cipher Pol, and where Robin practically reveals her past.

I hummed in the back of my bird throat, and started to flap my wings faster as my eyes narrow. As I did, I didn't notice the greenish blue fire coming from my wings as I flew at imaginably speeds. Although, I was soon sapped of energy and practically slammed my self into a certain black haired woman following a certain devil-fruit user into a door, making her stumble and me freak out because my wings have become messed up. The woman caught herself with a huff, and looked down at me with confusion as I was flapping my wings to get them to straighten out, but instead the feathers became stuck on top of each other.

The certain woman decided to pick me up and bring me with her, making me sweat drop because 1. I was never going to even go near her, and 2. What the hell is happening? I eventually straightened the feathers out with a bit of human help but I was still in the hold of the woman. Said woman was still confused and seemed to mumble that a Falcon like me was really rare around the Grand-Line part of the world, and I was supposed to be in the New World, or the Red Line if you must. I guess I am special!

To my confusion, the guy leading her only looked back once to see what the hell was going on, then looked forward, possibly assuming I was her bird pet, which I wasn't. I'll have to bonk her on the head for this later when I reveal my Harpy form, which is what I like to call my half form. If I was right, I might have more forms like Chopper, but I am not sure.

As soon as she was in the clear, I flapped my wings a bit and hopped onto her shoulders instead, making sure to smack her in the face a bit for revenge, which she only chuckled to. I sighed, rolling my bird eye that wasn't in the view of said woman and looked around. If

I was right, we are on the train, since she was handcuffed, given a robe, and is now sitting while a newbie stands guard.

I hopped onto the sea train next to her and stared out of the window blankly. Then squawked in squawked as Ussop's face came into my view, making me fall back onto Robin's lap. Robin had made sure I wouldn't fall down and turned to Ussop, who, even if I couldn't see, was pretty much expressionless. After a few moments of speaking (I'm sorry I forgot what the hell they talked about), the Guard came back and Ussop hid himself in the robe, much to my amusement.

I just looked away, until I was grabbed by the Guard by the neck, making me squawk and struggle. The man growled, and threw me at the Window, making me hit it face on. What the hell?! I got up, shook my head, and opened my wings and flew into the air to glare at the man, then lunged, my talons out as I started pecking and scratching his face in revenge, until Ussop came out and made the man go unconscious and I was grabbed by Robin who held my wings as I squawked at her, wanting to get my revenge. God, this was amusing, since I was able to actually do something to somebody.

In a bit, Sanjii comes barging in, causing a fight, then it stops thanks to Robin, then comes the portal fruit user, and now we're at Einies Lobby... or whatever it was named.

Robins POV

It was strange seeing a Peregrine Falcon in Water 7, I knew, but for some reason I was attached to the Falcon. It was dark grey, almost black, which a bunch of black speckles on a creamy white chest area. However, the eyes were a beautiful shade of Dark Green, unlike other Falcons that have golden yellow or whitish gray look.

She had assisted the Bird with it's feathers, making it sq-wack in annoyance, making her smile. When she walked through the door like portal, the bird had shifted from it's spot to a place on her shoulder, although it did slap her with the face with a wing, so she just chuckled as she knew it was revenge in some way.

Once she boarded the train, the falcon hopped next to her lap, although close enough for her to gently rub it behind its head, making it look away. However the moment was interrupted by the bird making a surprised noise and falling into her lap, and she made sure to secure it to the seat and not fall off. She looked back to the window and saw what it was about. Apparently Ussop was "Sniper King" so she played along, although he knew that she knew. The Falcon had silenced itself as it hopped onto the back of her seat.

The peacefulness was broken when the guard came back, suddenly throwing the Falcon into the window with a thud. The Falcon had become enraged and flew at the guard, scratching and pecking, which made her want to laugh softly at this, although it was finished once Ussop knocked the guard unconscious. Ussop had explained some things, although he kept an eye on the Falcon when he did so because he too never seen a bird like this before. Sanjii came in a bit later yelling something or another, but was stopped by the CP9.

She sighed heavily, glancing at the falcon. Why did she feel like something was going to change?

3. Description of Kat

Name (Last, First): Freedom F. Kaitlyn

Nicknames (if any): Kat, Freerider, Windrunner

Age: 15/17

Species: Human

Appearance: Skinny yet muscular body with a pale complexion, flatter chest than most females, short black hair that looks a bit like Mettaton or Deidara now that I think of it, and dark Green eyes. In the future, she loses an eye and has serious burns on arms and legs which make her unable to go full human.

Epithet (if any): The Wind-Flyer, Freedom F. Kaitlyn

Bounty (if any): 97,000,500 beli

Native territory: Grandline

Home island: Unknown

List any important relationships for the character: Robins mother-daughter relationship, Nami sisterhood, Chopper brotherhood

What is the character's affiliation?: Pirate

If they're a pirate, what crew do they travel with?: Strawhat

What is the character's job: Scout (Weather, Marines, Islands, etc), Dancer

Do they have any special abilities: Tori Tori no Mi Model Peregrines falcon

If so, how/when did they acquire the ability.: When they entered the world through unknown means.

What kind of weapons does the character use, if any?: Huge knife like Ichigo from Bleach

Describe the character's personality briefly.: Aggressive yet nice, loves to fight, loves the sight of blood

What is the character's dream or goal?: To see everyone's dreams come true.

Name a few things the character does well (strengths): Throwing knives, Dancing

Name a few things the character does not do so well (weaknesses): Swimming, cooking, sniping

Discuss the character's history: Self insert of myself. You'll find out in the story.

End
file.